29th. September. 2024

VITAMIN | Vitamins

01

Last week, the overall performance of the vitamin market was stable, but some varieties of Vitamins was more active. Specifically, the VB1 factory limited the signing of orders and shipments, resulting in a steady rise in market transaction prices, VE with the continuous consumption of low-cost supplies in the market, coupled with upstream quotes are still strong, the market has shown signs of rebound; At the same time, the VB6 factory has stopped reporting again, making the volume of domestic and foreign inquiries increase, and purchasing and sales activities are more active. In addition, affected by the rising prices of niacin and niacinamide raw materials, factories have correspondingly increased product prices, and market transaction prices have also risen. Similarly, VC factories have also raised product prices, which has pushed the market transaction price up slightly.
