VITAMIN

01

Recently, the market situation of vitamin B2 has shown a relatively unique trend. In terms of price, the trend is slow and falling. According to recent market monitoring data, the price has not fallen sharply, but has fallen at a relatively stable and slow rate. In terms of trading volume, the foreign market has seen an increase in trading volume. The purchase volume of vitamin B2 in many overseas markets has increased. Based on the analysis of various factors, it is expected that in the short term, it will be difficult for the price of vitamin B2 to recover.

AMINO ACID

02

Arginine: There are some inquiries for arginine in the domestic market. Users are replenishing stocks on demand after the holiday. Factory quotations have been slightly raised. Downstream demand has gradually recovered. We are paying attention to the actual order signing situation in the market. It is expected that the price of arginine in the short term may remain stable with a slight increase.

API

03

Enrofloxacin: Recently, the delivery of mainstream domestic factories has become tighter, and the export transaction of enrofloxacin above tonnage level is around USD23-24/KG. At present, some manufacturers have temporarily stopped quoting. We will continue to pay attention to the factory quotation and delivery situation in the future. The price may rebound.

FOOD ADDITIVE

04

On February 10, 2025, the Food Safety Standards and Monitoring and Assessment Department of the National Health Commission of China issued an announcement on 20 "three new foods" including stevia polyphenols, including 5 new food raw materials, 8 new varieties of food additives and 7 new varieties of food-related products.
