Recently, information from the State Intellectual Property Office showed that Shangyu NHU and Zhejiang NHU applied for a patent titled "A method for preparing color-controllable β -carotene", publication number CN 119059950 A, and application date August 2024.

The patent abstract shows that the invention belongs to the field of fine chemical technology, and specifically relates to a method for preparing color-controllable β -carotene. The preparation method obtains β -carotene with different particle sizes and particle size distribution that conforms to normal distribution by low-temperature freezing, crushing, and sieving β -carotene crystals. β -carotene of different colors can be prepared according to subsequent application requirements. The preparation method has more conventional operating equipment and can conveniently control the content of cis-isomers of β -carotene crystals to improve bioavailability.
